EU Competition Law

The course concentrates on the foundations for the system of rules, consisting of Articles 101 and 102 of the EU Treaty (anticompetitive behaviour & exemption from prohibitions, abuse of dominant position), Merger Regulation & State aid rules, which together are enforced in order to ensure that 'effective competition' prevails in EU market. These legal sources regulate much business activity using a complex balancing test to determine whether such activity is lawful competition or unlawful anti-competitive conduct. The course offers an economic perspective on these legal rules. It also offers a comparative perspective, frequently referring to the way antitrust law in the USA deals with similar problems. It looks at the application of the competition rules in certain contexts and sectors: "public undertakings", state aids, information technology. It places a particular emphasis on the relationship between EU competition law and intellectual property rights.

Methodology of European Law Research

This course aims to provide with an up to date understanding of Legal Research Methods in a modern world, overview of division of "sources-of-law" in different areas, comparison between Common Law and Civil Law thinking. The course will look not only at the historical developments of the Legal Doctrine as a Hermeneutic and an Empirical Discipline; also as a Logical and a Normative Discipline; and also look at the Empirical Data Used in Legal Doctrine, Wording and Checking Research Hypotheses, Theory Building in Legal Doctrine. The learning process will include major purposes of Comparative legal studies, a basic working-plan for a comparative law method and a civil law method

Public Procurement & State Aid regulation in the EU

This course aims to provide an up to date understanding of the EU procurement regime in the public sector and in the various other special procurement regimes under EU law. The course will look at the effects of these regimes and their underlying policies at the wider context. This course designed to expand knowledge and understanding of EU procurement law and state aid regulation, it is suitable for students in private practice or in the public sector, in house legal advisers and officials dealing with practice or policy in the procurement field.
